City of Atlantic City Prepares for More Flooding, Likely During the Tuesday Evening Rush

Atlantic City, N.J. (September 26, 2023) – The Mayor’s Office and Atlantic City Office of Emergency Management are warning residents and visitors to prepare for additional flooding throughout the city during high tide this evening, likely resulting in road closures and detours during the evening rush.

Roads that tend to experience the most flooding and often close during these situations include Route 40, Route 30, Rhode Island Avenue, Massachusetts Avenue, Melrose Avenue, Fairmount Avenue, Winchester Avenue, Boulevard Avenue and West End Avenue. Do not drive through flood waters, and any vehicles in areas prone to flooding should be moved.

The New Jersey Casino Reinvestment Development Authority (CRDA) has authorized free parking today and tomorrow morning in the Wave Parking Garage located at Mississippi and Fairmount Avenues. This is open to residents and visitors on the second floor of the garage until noon tomorrow.

For flooding updates, you can follow the City of Atlantic City on Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/AtlanticCityGov>

Residents are also encouraged to sign up for the city’s emergency notification system ‘AC Alerts’ to receive text and email updates during the weekend: <https://www.acnj.gov/pages/acalerts>
